

American Theological Library Association Serials (ATLAS) Online

For almost 60 years, the American Theological Library Association (ATLA) has produced some of the most indispensable tools for researchers in the field of religious studies. Its more than 1,000 members provide support to theological and religious studies libraries, and its ecumenical membership represents many religious traditions and denominations.

Its database ATLASerials (ATLAS) provides full-text electronic access to over 70 leading academic journals, chosen by leading scholars in the field. A number of journals in the database go back as far as the 1940s and 1950s, and a few go back even further. Articles come in the form of page images from the actual journals, which allows for browsing through an entire issue of a particular journal.
