
Church Missionary Society Archive, Section VI: Missions to India, Parts 2 & 4

This microfilm collection documents activities of the Church Missionary Society in the north and south of India during the 19th century. Documents include letters, official missionary documents, private journals, and minutes from conferences that provide insight into missionary activity and its impact in India. They also reveal much about Indian life, history, and customs during the period of British missionary activity. Parts 2 and 4 (covering the North India Mission, 1844-1886 and the South India Mission, 1834-1880) of the CMS Archive on India will enhance the Libraries' current holdings of this archive, which cover Parts 1 and 3.
